Bertillon System Introduced by the Prosecution.

THE PERFORMANCE FELL FLAT

As a Last Resort, the Prisoner's Counsel Will Call on Germany for the Documents-Bertillon Excited.

Rennes, Aug. 28 .- After M. Bertillon, the handwriting expert, who is at the head of the anthropometric department of the prefecture of police of Paris, had concluded the first installment of his so-called demonstration of the guilt of Captain Drevius, a prominent Dreyfusard referred to him as the fin de siecle Cagliostro. The Dreyfusards refuse to regard him as any thing but the prince of quacks. They cover his remarks with ridicule and protest that the admission of his fantastic theories as evidence before the courtmartial is a disgrace to France. "C est une honte," was the remark heard on all sides when the session closed, and the audience, mainly made up of Dreyfusards, was being pressed ontside by the gendarmes, who clear the courtioom as soon as the court ad-

Nevertheless, even the Dreyfusards do not deceive themselves as to the effect of M. Bertillon's testimony or "demonstration" may have upon judges, who, they fear, will be gulled by what the Dreyfusards consider spur ious. All the judges have passed through the Ecole Polytechnique, the highest school of science in France. and they are thus perculiarly interested in such "evidence" as that of Bertillon. Moreover, with the aid of the innumerable diagrams and specimens of writing which he submits to them, they may be able to follow his reasoning intelligently, which is more than any member of the audience could do today. If the judges accept Bertillon's premises that Dreyfus, as an expert spy, did not write in ordinary handwriting, but in close imitation, even contriving to give setters the appearsuce of having been traced, in order to be able to repudiate them as a forgery if detected-then the structure built upon this groundwork may be scientifically correct. Even Dreyfus, when shown Bertillon's demonstration, admitted the ingenuity and plausibility of the system, though he naturally declared that it was built on a false basis. A remarkable feature of Bertillon's Oregon professor, that it will be recom-mended by the board of ordnance and he put into what was expected to be deposition was the heat and excitement fortifications for use in the Philip- a calm, dispassionate exposition of his theory. The Echo de Paris announced today that the ccunsel of Dreyfus had obtained possession of certain documents mentioned in the borderan, in Esterhazy's writing, which they would produce in court next week as a coup de theatre. The press correspondent inquired as to this in competent Dreyfusard quarters this afternoon. He was assured that the statement was erronneous, but was also told that the defense intended, in the event of Captain Dreyfus being re-condemned, to ask the German government to com-

CUP CHALLENGER LEAKING. Accident and Towing Believed to Be

New York, Aug. 28 .- The Tribune says: Men whose opinions and yachting knowledge are respected and esteemed declared yesterday that the Shamrock was twisted in the midship section and that towing had caused a strain which has "worked her plates." One yachting expert who has built yachts and has docked hundreds of ships told a Tribune reporter last evening that in the afternoon he was surprised, while looking at the English cup challenger, to see that she was adly twisted in the midship section. "The warp is quite apparent," he continued, "to any one who knows anything about the lines of a yacht I fancied that I detected the twist yesterday afternoon. I am sure of it to-day, as by lightening, the Shamrook is much higher out of the water today than she was yesterday. Naturally towing caused the straining and made the plates draw and on that account I believe the theory of a leak is quite probable. If the vacht came over on he port tack the tendency would be to strain the hull to starboard, and such strain would undoubtedly cause the plates on the port quarter to spring." Others believe that the leak or strain probably was the result of the acci-

Orphan Asylum Burned at Sparkill, N. Y.

CAUSED BY LAMP EXPLOSION

Plames Spread So Rapidly That There Was Little Chance of Escape for the Immates-Heroism of the Sisters.

Nyack, N. Y., Aug. 29.-Fire was iscovered in the large boys' and girls' orphan asylum connected with St. Anne's convent, at Sparkhill, Rockland county, at 1 A. M., today, but not efore the entire strucure, a frame building, was wrapped in flames. Many of the inmates, children, were burned and suffocated, it was reported early this monring. The exact numper of the dead could not be told at 8:15 A. M., when the first dispatches eached this city.

The asylum, which is conducted by the Sisters of Mercy, held about 1,000 children. It was a long frame buildng, three stories high.

The fire was not discovered until the whole building was one mass of flames. The children had scant chance for escape. Special trains over the New Jersey Northern road were rushed to the nearest railroad station.

The asylum was situated between Sparkhill and Orangeburg. The scenes at the conflagration were heartrending. The children clad in their nightrobes, could be seen falling backward into the flames and smoke while the shricks of the dying could be heard above the crackle of the devouring flames. Some of the children were crippled for life by jumping from the windows. Many of the sisters also were injured, while others lost their

The fatally injured are: John Morsh man, fractured skull and fractured right leg; J. J. Dowd, internal injuries, both eyes out, both legs broken; Peter Peliteir right arm cut off at shoulder, skull fractured; John White, skull fractured, internal injuries. Those missing and believed to be in the ruins are: Edward Swanson,

Joseph King. Several more were injured slightly.

All of the 12 arches were standing, the 12th and last having been completed today. . It was the intention of the steel contractors, the Pittsburg Bridge Company, of Pittsburg, Pa., to turn over its work tonight to the general contractors. The iron "traveler' or derrick, which had been used in the erection of the acrhes, had been removed and the agents of the bridge company were accounting their work as practically completed, when suddenly, and without warning, the arch last put in place suddenly fell over against the one next to it. The weight was too much for this; it gave way, crashing aggingt the third, and, one by one. the great steel spans fell over to the stouth, precisley in the same manner as a number of cards would fall. Nearly all of the men who were killed were at work on top of the arches 40 feet from the ground. Some of them made futile attempts to slide down the side of the arches, but before they could help themselves, they were hurled to the ground. Many of them uttered skulls of the unfortunate nien were crushed into shapeless masses, their limbs were out off as if by a monster knife, and they were mangled beyond recognition. The direct cause of the accident is not known. One theory of the accident which receives some support is that a shifting of sand beneath the foundation caused the collapse of the first arch, which brought all the others to the ground. A story which cannot be substantiated is that a number of workmen were using a pulley on the north arch, while they were taking down some scaffolding that had been erected around it. They caused the arch to sway, and finally it swayed too

SPARKILL CONVENT FIRE. Burning of the Orphanage Resulted Sparkhill, N. Y., Aug. 30 .- Fire that broke out at 1 o'clock this morning destroyed nine of the ten buildings of the St. Agnes convent and orphanage, entailing a loss of $150,000 and ma Mackin, aged 7; "Jane," a penioner, aged 70; Mary Kate McCarthy, aged 28. The missing are: Therese Murphy, aged 14, and Mary Brown, aged 4. The seriously injured are: Sister Sienna, shock and collapse: Sister Marie, burns and concussion; Sister Bertrand, concussion of spine and shook; Sister Katherine, arm broken, and Hannah Shea, leg broken. Twenty-five inmates were injured by falls, jumps and burns, none seriously. That more lives were not lost was due to the heroism of the Sisters and some of the elder inmates. When the fire broke out, the 400 inmates of the institution were asleep. Most of them were gotten out in almost perfect order but a score who risked their lives to save others were finally forced either to jump from the upper stories or make desperate dashes through stairways and corridors filled with flames and
